How can very young children participate in activities that make the world a better place? Little Ted shows us specific ways of participating in tikkun olam (repairing the world).

JEWISH CONCEPTS

“Ted is small, but he spends his days doing very big things.” So begins this story about a little boy doing the large work of tikkun olam, the Jewish value and practice of repairing the world. Ted is young, but not too young to contribute to his family, his community and even the world. And like Ted’s family, yours will find its own meaningful ways to effect change. From composting to planting flowers in public places to turning off the tap while brushing teeth -- the possibilities for practicing tikkun olam with young children are limitless. Enjoy each activity, remembering that, together, we can repair our big world, one small act at a time!
